

Worldview Survey

What you believe is a very personal part of your life, but also a part that has very deep personal meaning for you. There is an element of every belief system that is called “worldview.” Worldview is absolutely the most fundamental element of everything you believe. It is the assumptions you make about the very nature of reality.

This may sound very philosophical at first, but in actuality there is nothing more practical. Every action you take emerges out the these worldview assumptions.

To help you have more of a sense of your own worldview foundation, you will find, inside a worldview survey. This survey will not give you a detailed explanation about every aspect of your life, but will reveal your worldview tendencies.

After you have had the opportunity to take the survey, you will find a brief explanation of the implications of your tendencies for your life on the back page. It is our hope that by gaining this deeper understanding about yourself, you will be able to work to make your own life more meaningful.

If you have any questions after taking the survey, please feel free to contact us. We look forward to any opportunity to be a blessing to you.
