Dear Freddy,

What a great joy it was to reconnect with you after so many years! I was glad to learn of all the great ways God has blessed you and your family.

I was especially grateful for the manner in which you led our church here through worldview studies. I believe you succeeded in opening the eyes of some of our key leaders to areas and truths they had not previously given much if any thought to. You have challenged them to explore this further, and several in fact appear to have made a commitment to go much deeper in learning about the various worldviews. A number of folks have expressed the desire to go more in depth about how a greater knowledge of the Christian worldview and how it relates to the other worldviews can help us to share the gospel more effectively. I find this to be an exciting development for the future of Saluda River Baptist Church. We will continue to pursue this direction. Many of our folks have signed up for your email newsletter, so I am sure that will help to keep this before them and help them get their questions answered.

As I mentioned to you before you left, if I had it all to do over again, I would probably have scheduled at least one more day and possibly two. Friday, Saturday, and Sunday morning were good, but given the volume of information, I think at least adding Thursday would have been even better. I think we could have started Wednesday evening also, which could have helped further with promotion. Or, maybe a Sunday through Wednesday would be good.

At any rate, thank you again for the ministry you are moving deeper into, and my prayer for you is that Lord will provide you with more and more opportunities for speaking and writing and developing this ministry even further. I believe that our country has reached the point where helping Christians understand worldview concepts and how they can apply toward outreach, missions, witness, and such is sorely needed. So I pray that your ministry will expand exponentially.

Blessings!
